Contract Execution

All scheduled events are considered tentative until the contract for the event has been fully executed, signed and returned to the Eastern Kentucky Exposition Center, along with the payment of the advanced deposit.

Two copies of the event contract will be mailed prior to the event. Both copies of the contract are to be signed and returned, with required non-refundable deposit, to the AWA.

Additional rental fees may be required by AWA management to cover expenses in the following areas, but not limited to: balance of minimum rental fee, estimated staffing, equipment usage, catering/hospitality fees and technical services.

Upon completion of a signed contract and non-refundable deposit, the event information, depending on requirements, will need to be given to the following people, who will be responsible for carrying out all necessary items from pre-show advancement to move-out. The individuals are the lessee's liaison with all AWA staff and will gladly provide all necessary information and coordination.

After meeting with lessee, AWA will prepare an itemized statement of reimbursable expenses for which the lessee will be financially responsible for at time of settlement. A copy of all expenses incurred by the event is provided to the lessee and is considered an addendum to the contract.

In-House Marketing Support

AWA provides in-house expertise on marketing your show with an emphasis on demographics, analytics, related show information, and of course with an imperative focus on ticket sales. For a 15% fee, marketing will give advice on the local market, make buys, workout trades, and handle any digital, mobile, electronic, or static marketing needs. From pre-sales, group sales to special Ticketmaster promotional opportunities, contact

Josh Kesler at (606) 444-5506 for more details.
